

Tucker Carlson Network (TCN):

Tucker Carlson's influence, alongside his deep connections with President Donald Trump and his inner circle, particularly in shaping Trump's political trajectory, suggests that Carlson could play a significant role in a future Trump-Vance administration. Carlson has long been a crucial media figure in Trump's strategy, especially during the re-election campaign and as the 2024 election approaches. His frequent Fox News appearances, advocacy for Trump allies like J.D. Vance, and influence over Trump's policy decisions (such as recommending Vance for the vice president role) highlight his central role in Trump's political machinery.

WHAT WILL WE DO WITH THIS MOMENT...

Given that Trump is currently the president-elect, the specifics of Carlson's future position remain uncertain. However, his close ties with Trump and his ability to shape the narrative of Trump's policies make it likely that Carlson could be offered a prominent media or communication role in a potential second Trump administration. Some speculate that Carlson could either oversee information dissemination or serve in a strategic position related to media, with his Tucker Carlson Network \(TCN\) continuing to shape public discourse and influence policy, even without an official role.

The importance of the Tucker Carlson Network lies in its potential to break free from media manipulation:

Like that discussed by former CIA officer Kevin Shipp. Shipp revealed the CIA's influence on public narratives through programs like Operation Mockingbird and the Trusted News Initiative, which manipulate the information that reaches the public. Tucker Carlson Network could provide an alternative platform, ensuring the dissemination of genuine news, counteracting the control of narratives by powerful media networks and giving a voice to perspectives that are often suppressed or distorted.

Operation Mockingbird:

Was a covert CIA program that aimed to influence public opinion by recruiting journalists and media outlets. The agency paid journalists to report narratives that aligned with its goals, effectively controlling the information presented to the public. This manipulation extended to both mainstream media and social media platforms, helping the CIA shape public perception on key issues. The program's legacy highlights the significant role intelligence agencies can play in controlling media narratives.

The Trusted News Initiative (TNI):

Is a collaboration between major media outlets, tech companies, and intelligence agencies CIA, SIS (also known as MI6) and MOSSAD (among others around the world) have worked to shape narratives and influence public opinion by placing operatives in media outlets and on the other hand combat misinformation and control news narratives. It aims to ensure the accuracy and reliability of information shared with the public, but critics argue it may also limit diverse viewpoints and censor certain perspectives. By partnering with global organizations, the TNI seeks to shape the news agenda, raising concerns about centralized control over media content and its potential impact on free speech.

The Matrix, and this is where Kukulcan wants to start and pick up from the Mobil Avenue (Matrix Revolutions) scene within the Tucker Carlson Network.

Neo (referred to as "The One") finds himself trapped in a train station called Mobil Avenue. This place is a metaphysical construct controlled by the Merovingian, a program that operates in the Matrix. The train station serves as a liminal space between the Matrix and the Machine World, functioning as a form of "no man's land."

In the scene, Neo is unable to escape the station on his own because it operates in a circular loop: when he tries to run in one direction, he simply reappears from the opposite side. This reflects the station's nature as a prison with no apparent exit for those trapped within it, unless granted passage by the Trainman, an agent of the Merovingian.

The comparison between the Rothschilds, Rockefellers, and the British Crown to the Merovingian and his control of the Mobil Avenue train station in The Matrix is a fascinating analogy. It suggests these entities occupy a space of immense power and influence beyond the reach of traditional governance structures—what could be likened to “no man’s land” in geopolitical and financial systems.

The Analogy in Detail:

1. The Rothschild and Rockefeller Families: These families are often portrayed as being above the visible systems of governance, shaping global events through their control of financial networks, corporations, and political influence. Similar to the Merovingian’s control over Mobil Avenue, they are seen as gatekeepers of a hidden world where decisions are made that impact the “Matrix” of global society.
2. The British Crown: The British monarchy represents historical and symbolic continuity of power, blending tradition with influence over Commonwealth nations and geopolitics. Like the Trainman, who decides who can leave Mobil Avenue, the monarchy often serves as a symbolic or even functional arbiter in complex systems of governance.
3. Mobil Avenue – A State of Limbo: Just as Neo was stuck in a loop within Mobil Avenue, individuals and systems trying to navigate or challenge the Deep State-like powers represented by these families might find themselves caught in an endless loop, unable to break free from their pervasive influence. The anagram "limbo" underscores this dynamic.

4. The Merovingian's Role: The Merovingian, with his control over certain layers of the Matrix, mirrors these elite families' ability to operate within and manipulate global systems in ways that seem untouchable by conventional means, reinforcing their status as hidden overseers.

This analogy serves to emphasize the layered complexity and unseen hierarchies in both The Matrix and real-world structures of power. It suggests that overcoming these challenges requires not only individual strength (like Kukulcan) but also collaboration, insight, and systemic change.

Thematically, the sequence highlights Neo's vulnerability, even as "The One," showing that there are realms and entities within the Matrix that remain beyond his control. It's a moment of isolation and dependence, underscoring the interconnectedness of the system and the limits of his power without collaboration. The station name, Mobil Avenue, is an anagram of "limbo," which reinforces its symbolic purpose as a state of suspension and transition.

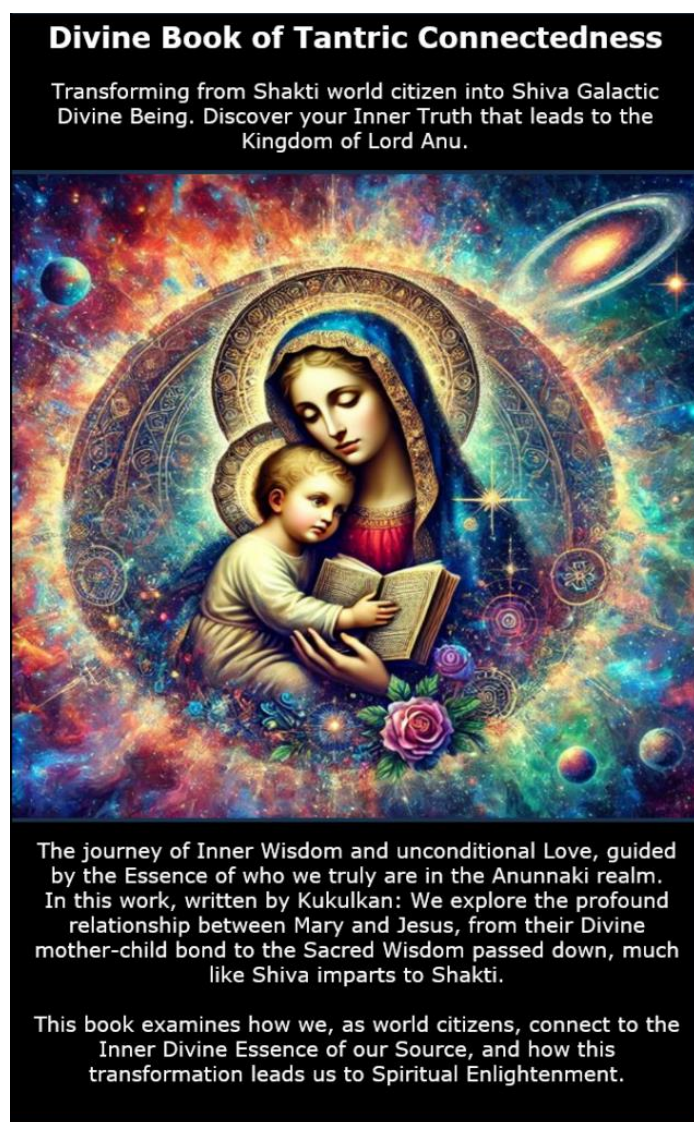

On the left, Andrew Tate teaches his students to escape the Matrix by focusing on financial independence, self-improvement, and masculinity through his online platform, Hustler's University. His courses cover topics like cryptocurrency, e-commerce and empowering young men and women.

On the right, Kukulcan guides his students to escape the Matrix through spiritual awakening, emphasizing self-awareness, meditation, and alignment with higher consciousness; throughout his The I Am University and his Divine Book of Tantric Connectedness. His teachings focus on transcending material desires to reach spiritual enlightenment, offering a path to balance and inner peace. This creates a clear contrast between material success and spiritual growth.

The United Universe Church Galaxy Academy (UUCGA), or "IAmUniversity," represents a unique spiritual and educational platform that integrates universal teachings with a focus on self-awareness, cosmic consciousness, and personal evolution. It is designed to help individuals awaken to their true spiritual nature and align with a higher purpose, blending academic learning with deep spiritual insight. God: Lord Anu, Buddha, Shiva, Allah, Mary, Kukulkan, Yahweh, Tao and the Great Spirit, are you and: Anunnaki, Moses, Prophet Muhammad, Jesus Christ, Kukulkan, Shakti, avatar world-citizen are: God

In the eyes of a world citizen, depending on their state of consciousness, awakening, or enlightenment, they may perceive you as a Anunnaki galactic being, known as a milky wWay galaxy, the heart of the universe, the center of the Multiverse, or the singular white hole. These conceptualize the four levels of consciousness, which offer a broader understanding than the Kardashian scale. This shift in perspective indicates a movement towards universal awareness, realizing one's true essence as an integral part of the cosmic whole.

An intelligent person might only recognize themselves as a world citizen, overlooking their cosmic nature. Yet, there's an intrinsic connection between heaven, Earth, and the levels of awareness tied to what one truly is. Transcending world citizenship requires shedding personal identity to embrace higher consciousness, starting with acknowledging the cosmic dance, Nataraja, which manifests through all beings.

Life may be seen as a dream dreamed by an Alien Lucid, a film directed by an Alien, or a virtual game where an Alien plays as you. Ascension in awareness begins with embodying your Anunnaki galactic being, progresses to residing at the universe's heart, ascends further to the Multiverse center, and culminates at the White Hole. Around this, all Omniverses revolve as a cosmic serpent, Kukulcan, whose body serves as the Mainframe while HunabKú acts as the source code moderator.

Kukulcan and HunabKú embody every consciousness level: galaxies, parallel universes, and within the body—where Kundalini energy coils along the spine and centers in the solar plexus, HunabKú, the Bliss center. At the microcosmic level, they symbolize the electron orbiting an atom, with HunabKú as the nucleus.

Kukulcan unique path of spiritual growth and cosmic enlightenment with others.

It is important to reflect on what you consider essential to observe: How do you perceive the ancient, secret wisdom of Kukulkan? Do you see him as a god, Shiva, deity, Anunnaki, Angel, Jesus Christ, the enlightened one, Shakti, avatar, world citizen, genius, alternative scientist, conspiracy theorist, bit awkward or a fool? However you judge Kukulkan says more about those evaluating him than about Kukulkan himself. The label you assign to him reveals your current level of consciousness, which determines the foundation we will work from.

I see myself as a human embodying the "sleeping prophet" Edgar Cayce with a hybrid divine presence of Kukulkan, the feathered serpent from Mayan mythology. Cayce is known for his spiritual insights during trance states, while Kukulkan represents cosmic wisdom and transformative consciousness energy. Together, they symbolize the union of intuitive knowledge and divine connection, empowering me to explore and share

Share your thoughts and feelings about Kukulkan, as he can guide you in elevating your level of consciousness. This journey often begins with cultivating good health, achieving fitness milestones, and embracing inner beauty, ultimately leading to spiritual enlightenment. Whether in deep sleep, profound meditation, an out-of-body experience, an ego-death and rebirth on 5-MeO-DMT, the moment of death, or before birth, you are eternally present. You don't need to travel anywhere; you're already at your destination. What seemed lost is revealed to have never left you.

Upadesa Saram 28:

The teachings of Sri Ramana Maharshi in Upadesa Saram emphasize that the true self, or Atman, transcends the illusions of birth and death, leading to a realization of Eternal Being, Consciousness Bliss (Sat Chit Anand). This aligns with the core principles of Advaita Vedanta and of Kukulkan, which teaches that ultimate reality is non-dual and ever-present, beyond the cycles of life and death. When one recognizes their true Anunnaki Self, they come to embody an unchanging state of peace and awareness, which is equivalent to Spiritual Enlightenment.

Similarly, Kukulkan, can be understood as a symbol of spiritual transformation and cosmic wisdom. Just as Sat Chit Anand represents the unification of Being, Consciousness Bliss in Vedantic philosophy, Kukulkan's teachings invite us to transcend the limited ego and connect to a higher, universal consciousness. Both teachings guide towards an awakened state, where the illusion of separation dissolves, and one comes to experience the ultimate truth of existence in the Anunnaki realm in the kingdom of Lord Anu.

In this sense, both Sri Ramana Maharshi's and Kukulkan's teachings offer a profound understanding of the nature of the self and the cosmos, urging the seeker towards a realization of oneness with the eternal, Blissful state of pure Consciousness.
